

CALL FOR PAPERS

13th CONFERENCE OF THE INTERNATIONAL COURTLY LITERATURE SOCIETY

Montreal's four universities - Université de Montréal, McGill University, Concordia University, and Université du Québec à Montréal - welcome you to the 13th Conference of the International Courtly Literature Society (ICLS), which will be held from July 25th to July 31st 2010

at the Bibliothèque nationale du Québec in Montreal.

We have chosen an overarching theme that will give a general direction to the conference yet be sufficiently broad to allow for the presentation of individual research projects. We hereby invite you to submit paper proposals before December 15th 2009 on the theme

Courtly Cultures on the Move

You are invited to consider the following three areas in particular:

- a) Transmission and reception of courtliness
- b) Books and courtly culture
- c) Languages of courtliness

We will gladly welcome proposals for thematic sessions organised by individuals or by groups of participants.

Please submit a title and a 250-word abstract. We need you to specify to which national branch of the Society you belong. You must be an ICLS member to give a paper at the conference. If you are not yet a member, you may contact the secretary of your national branch, who will gladly accept your registration. The official languages of ICLS are French, English, and German.

For all queries, please contact us at the following address:

icls2010@listes.umontreal.ca

and visit our website (www.icls2010.ca), where you will find information on registration and accommodation, as well as all conference events and activities.

We are looking forward to welcoming you in Montreal.

Francis GINGRAS
Université de Montréal
Littérature française du Moyen Âge
Département des littératures de langue française

Sebastian SOBECKI
McGill University
Medieval English Literature
Department of English